

The government doesn't need more electronic wiretapping capabilities. It invades privacy too much, and would be difficult to regulate, at best.